Canaries as Concert Singers.

Spring! Spring! London Telegraph An entire novelty in the concert singing department of musical art is promised to the lovers of sweet sounds, by an ingenious citizen of Phoenix ville, South Australia. This gentleman has for some years past levoted himself exclusively to the training of canary birds in every known method of vocalization, and, has an reased this branch of his business through the SUPFRIORITY of the as we gather from antipodean journals, with extraordinary success. But he has recently crowned his triumphs as a very Lamperti of feathered songsters, by inventing a me-chanical apparatus by which his yel-low pupils will be taught to perform music of a more recondite and complicated character, than mere bal lads and opera airs. He proposes, with the aid of his contrivance, not only to produce canary soloists, capable of executing airs like "Dip your Chair," or "Dee Tanty," as the immortal Jeames de la Pluche BOYS' & YOUTH'S CLOTHING, designated the florid displays fashionable in his day, but to teach his pupils part-singing and the rendering of the most difficult modern op-And everything else kept in a FIRST-CLASS CLOTHING HOUSE. eratic choruses. The birds listen eagerly to the music, turning their attention to the quarter whence it proceeds. Their WE HAVE THE BEST CUTTER IN THE COUNTRY. gaze is naturally directed to the mirror, in which they see the reflection of their own graceful persons. At once they hop to the conclusion that their counterfeit presentments are real live canaries, melodiously engaged in singing the unfamiliar strains that delight their ears. From observation to imitation, it appears, is but a step with the iutelligent and timeful canary bird. AN ERA OF GOOD PRELING:

It Takes Two Sides to Bring H About.

Sonator Whyte, of Maryland, in advocating, on Wednesday, a bill to admit to the United States army a man who has been in the rebel service, declared naively, that he supposed that we were living in "an era of good somewhat like that which prevailed under President James Monroe, who happened to be the greatgrandfather of the man in question. such expressions are not uncommon from the Democratic side of the Senaie. They are generally made use of in an indignant or deprecatory tone when some rash Republican has ventured to allude to the rebellion. Such allusions are resented as inconsistent with the "good feeling" it has assumed ought to seal the lips of every one who does not regard the rebellion as an unfortunate but very creditable performance on the part of those who made it. It mover seems to occur to our Democratic friends that an era of good feeling is a sort of era which it takes two parties to establish. If the people who sustained the Union, who spent their energies and their treasure, and from among whom many precious lives were lost to preserve the government of the Nation, are to forget or ignore the war they ought to be permitted, they ought to be aided, to do so, by those who sustained the rebellion. But the case in regard to which the debate of Wednesday took place is an instance of the obstinacy with which many of the South ern leaders, and those who, like Mr. Thurman, take every occasion to side with the Southern leaders, refuse to let the rebellion be forgotten. This was a case of a man who, in his youth, left his own State, and went to Virginia to volunteer in the rebel army. He now thinks he has a chance to get an appointment in the Federal army, and his friends find that his service in the rebellion bars the way. Instead of frankly accepting the situation, and respecting the situation, and respecting the situation and respecting a law which is a most reasonable, when compared with the boom of all feat of the rebellion, they set to work booms, which heaves and throbs in to suspend the law in his favor. They peal. Is it possible that they think this to be a proper mode of helping the country to forget the war? Is it not challenging attention to it? Can they wonder that Republican Senators, among them the men who gave years of earnest devotion to the cause of the Union, feel compelled to question the principle on which such a proposition rests, or that the people of the North tion involved in such a proposition, and which was very directly sustained by Mesers. Bayard and Thurman, is that there is nothing in the fact of a man having served in the army of the rebel States to unfit him to hold a commission from the Federal government. Political leaders who force such doctrine on the public attention are not con-

the sentiment of patriotism, with ordi-

doctrine is just and proper.

Mr. Tilden thinks it would be highly impolitic for the democrats to nominate Thomas F. Bayard, because he has such a bad secession record. But did Bayard at any time go beyond Tilden when the latter wrote in 1861 to a New York newspaper:

"I foresee so clearly the calamity which would inevitably result from an appeal to the sword for the solution of tions of such a mossi result, that I feel it to be a sacred duty to refuse my sanction to any expression tending to such a result.' The trouble with most of the democratic candidates for the presidency was that they were too much in favor of secossion at the breaking out of the war. Tilden can boast of nothing more than Bayard on the secession question.

A REMARKABLE fog enveloped New York city Thursday morning. The Sun says: "It varied remarkably in density, as if moving over the city in huge billows. After midnight it was occasionally impossible to distinguish the lighted face of a steeple clock at a distance of two hundred feet, and a minute later every figure on the margin of the disk would come out with perfect distinct ness. The full moon, riding high in the heavens, and surrounded by a yellowish corona, with a border of brown, lighted up the foggy sea with a kind of phosphoresence." An incident of the fog was a collision on the elevated railroad, the engineers not being able to distinguish one another's trains at a distance of one hundred and fifty feet.

THE AUTHOR OF THE ELECTORAL COMMISSION.

Springfeld Republican.

George F. Edmunds was the father of the electoral law, which solved the presidential tangle of 1876-7. It was the greatest triumph of remedial legislation known in our time. Even the resumption act was inferior to it in some respects and from the nature of the circumsances. The resumption act was the alignment of the country with the economic tendencies of the time and against its own ignorance and weakness, the grand product and re-sultant of hard fought campaigns and economic forces, wrought into law by John Sherman. The electoral law, on the other hand, was devised in the heat of a great and appalling emergency, bursting suddenly upon the country and arraying parties and sections in an almost warlike attitude and threatening the orderly succession of the government itself. It is well known that the measure came full-fledged from the Senate division of the special committee on the electoral count, and it never was denied that so far as one man was entitled to the credit, that man was Senator Edmunds. The fair intent and purpose of that measure are well remembered, and its success in settling peaceably and legally the question at issue is admitted. Had Judge Davis gone into the electoral commission, instead of being elected to the Senate by the too eager Democrats, the result might have been different, although the wisdom of the decision of the electoral commission, denying to itself any power to go behind the returns of States, will without doubt be vindicated in history.

Ferocity of the Nihillsts. The ferocity of the Russian Nihilists is equalled only by the most degraded Spanish and Italian assessins. The crimes committed by the French Communists are acts of valor when compared with the misdeeds of these criminals. The Communists fought openly, and exposed their own lives on the barricades and the forts, while the Nihilists stab in the dark and from behind. It would not be at all surprising to see, one of these fine days, the Russian peasants rise like one man throughout the length and breadth of the whole empire and exterminate all the students, professors, doctors, lawyers, and other educated men. The Russian peasant, as well as the Russian soldiers, is a truly loyal brute. Both know it is in the universities and schools that Nihilism is bred, and they may easily make up their minds to put a stop to this plague in the same way they once tried to put a stop to the cholera-to wit, by murdering all the medical men whom they suspected of spreading the disease. -New York Sun.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Municipal elections occurred in the principal cities of Maine, on Monday last, and also a number of other points in the States. At Portland, the principal city of Maine, the Republicans elected their Mayor by 1,234 majority in a total vote of 5,370, against a Fusion majority last year of 40. The Republicans also carried Farmington, Skowhegan, Lewiston, Auburn, Gardiner, Bath, Saco, Deering, Cape Elizabeth, Bridgton, Falmouth, Gorham, Kennebunk, Kennebunkport, Carmel, Fryeburg, Hiram and stockland. Ellsworth and Standish gave Democratic majori-

A MARTYR to democratic principles incarcerated in th county jail at Springfield, Ill. The fellow Bursig, who was indicted and arrested some time ago for having played a sharp game down in Cumberland county, while acting as a judge of election, by throwing out republican and substituting democratic ballots, was arraigned for trial before the United States district court, at Springfield, the other day, and, for "prudential reasons," pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and five month's imprisonment in jail. The rascal escapes much too lightly. One who is guilty of a great deal worse.

NEWS FROM ALL POINTS.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—In speaking in opposition to the bill for the relief of General Fitz John Porter, Senator Logan maintained that there was no precedent in the history of the government for Porter's restoration to the army; that the cases cited by Mr. Randolph yesterday, where officers courtmartialed were restored, differed from the present case in that a disqualification against holding office under the government was part of Porter's sen tence and not of the other cases. Mr. Logan said that there was only one way by which Porter could get back into the army under the constitution, and that was, first, by receiving a pardon from the president and then being regularly nominated to the senate. The desire to hear Logan attracted more people to the capitol than could get inside the senate chamber.

WASHINGTON, March 2.-The action of the Louisiana senate in imprisoning several republican senators for baving signed a memorial sent to the United States senate in relation to the right of Senator Kellogg to his seat in the senate, which the democrats considered insulting, was brought to the attention of the senate to-day by Senator Hoar, who submitted a resolution directing the judiciary committee, to inquire whether any witnesses before the senate investigating committee had been arrested or persecuted for testifying. No action was taken on the resolution, but it will be called up to morrow for consideration.

In regard to Pinchback's nomination as naval officer, Senator Kellogg says the president disavows having had any intention of nominating him. Secretary Sherman sent Pinchback's name to the president several weeks ago, and by some inadvertence the paper containing the nomination was signed by the president and transmitted to the senate. He did not know that he had nominated Pinchback until he saw the announcement in the newspapers.

It is attraction for Thanksgiving week it the Galety is "Alvin Joshu," with Charles I. Davis in the title role, supported by Miss Emma Verme and his dramatic company. The piece is a character comedy, the scame of which is laid in New England, and the hero of the piece is a New England farmer. The comedy is replete with striking illustrations, laughable incidents, with plenty of "business." Elvin Joslin is a fine character, and it must be said that Mr. Davis gives a strong impersonation. Miss Verne, as the abused wife of the villam of the piece, shows some bits of fine acting in the many dramatic and pathetic situations. The piece shounds in striking tableaux, and will, no death. shounds in striking tableaux, and will, no doubt, prove a leading attraction. The company does very effective work.—Boston Daily Globe, Nov. 3th.

THE Y. M. C. A. WORK.

To the Executive Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of Decatur. Ill. :

DRAR BRETHREN: Our record as an association, has been made for another month. Some of our members have exhibited a very desirable and commendable faithfulness in the Master's work, and have been blessed in the same. Personal religious conversation has been held with a number of irreligious persons, and Christ has been presented to them for their acceptance. The financial and social interests of the association have been materially advanced through the gymnssium and the Art exhibition given by the Ladies' Working Band. Through these auxiliaries a large number of our citizens and young people, for the first time, have been brought into our rooms and an increased interest in our work has been awakened. The gymnasium is now open for use on Monday, Thursday and Saturday evenings of each week, and upwards of sixty persons have secured tickets entitling them instruction in this department two evenings of each week. We hope, that through the gymnasium, we may be able to enroll as association members many who have hitherto held themselves aloof. The February meetings of the Associations were as follows: Daily prayer meetings, 15; cottage prayer meetings, 8, gospel meetings, 5; jail meetings, 5 Tuesday evening meetings, 3; Bible study, 3; working band meetings, 3; business meetings, 1; executive commit tee, 1. Total 44.

Total attendance about 900.

During the month two new members were enrolled; 220 visits were made to the rooms : two testaments and 180 papers, magazines and tracts were given away ; about 890 invitations to attend religious meeting were distributed: 'two persons were furnished with clothing; two families were furnished with grocer-Main street, by serious illness. He was les and one with coal: four meals and two night's lodging were furnished, and a stove belonging to the association was loaned to a destitute family.

During the present month we shall enter the fourth year of our existence as an organization. Let us fill the remaining days of this year with carnest service for the Lord, that we may not enter the next "empty handed."

Yours fraternally, I. J. Davis, General Secretary.

Mrs. Murphy's Letter.

EDITORS REPUBLICAN -- As Mrs. Murphy blames me with betrayal of confidence I wish to say that I used my best endeavors to see Mrs. M. before publishing her note to me yesterday morning. I went to her house and was told that she had gone to her school. I went to her school and was told by a young lady in charge of her school that she had gone to the third ward. Without stopping to ask where in the third ward I went to the third ward polls and asked for Mis Murphy and was told she was there, but on finding the Mrs. Murphy there it proved to be Mrs. M. P. Murphey. I gave up the CHAS. L. DAVIS search and took the responsibility of publishing her letter, as it was to the point, and told some plain truths that the aver age man don't seem to understand. I af terwards learned that Mrs Murphy had gone to the third ward school in the performance of duties assigned her by the superintendent. I am personally to blame for the use I made of her letter, and if there be any blame it should be upon my Hitherto it has been a matter of some difficulty to determine the time of flight of small arm projectiles, owing to the impossibility of seeing them strike. In a series of experiments made by the United separa, and Sick Headache, or diseases of late character, they stand without a rival. use of the telephone. The telephone was connected with two Blake transmitters, one placed near the gun, the other in front of and near the target. The time between the report of the gun and sound of the hall upon the target was measured by a stop watch. The observations founded on a large number of experiments, never differed more than a quarter or half of a second from each other, the slight delay in starting the watch being neutralized by the delay in stopping it. It was found that the time of transit was affected by the wind, being shortened by a rear and lengthened by a head wind.
